

TURN A SQUARE SHOP ORANGE IN ONE VISIT

You made Bitcoin what it is. Now let's make it spendable at the register. This card is for you, the community member doing the onboarding. Ask one question, spark some curiosity, then hand over the merchant guide.

Serve, don't sell. You're a loyal customer bringing them a way to keep more of every sale, not pitching crypto.

START WITH ONE QUESTION

"HAVE YOU TURNED ON THE LIGHTNING RAILS FOR TRANSACTIONS TO ELIMINATE TRANSACTION FEES?"

Ask it, then stop. Let them get curious. Curiosity opens the door a pitch closes.

- 1 Pick your spot. Choose a local business you love that uses Square but doesn't take Bitcoin yet. Go in when the owner can spare a few minutes.
- 2 Keep it real. Introduce yourself as a loyal customer who wants to pay in Bitcoin, and make clear this benefits them first and foremost.
- 3 Ask the opener. Use the question above, then let it land. Their "wait, really?" is your opening.
- 4 Give the one reason that lands: their bottom line. Cards take 3 to 6%. Square Bitcoin is 0% through 2026. The money arrives in seconds, and there are no chargebacks, ever. Skip scarcity and immutability; they care about the register.
- 5 Offer the incentive: free promotion. "Can we bring you customers? The Jersey City Bitcoin community spends at Bitcoin-friendly shops on purpose, and we'll feature your business on our website and on the map Bitcoiners use to find shops."
- 6 Make it effortless. "It's already built into your Square. We can turn it on in about 10 minutes, here's a quick guide, or I'll walk you through it right now." Then hand over the merchant guide.
- 7 Owner not around? Leave the guide with an employee and ask that it reach the owner's desk. Get a name and a way to follow up.
- 8 Close the loop. Get their contact and send a short thank you. When they switch it on, come back and be their first Bitcoin customer.

Incentives drive behavior.

Simplify: meet people at zero context.

It's a service, not a sale.
